TALE OF AN UNSUCCESSFUL COUNTERATTACK

@RYBAR

Excerpt from the operational summary

Fighting on the Vremievsky Bulge has been going on since the beginning of the counteroffensive by Ukrainian formations against the Russian defenses. By the end of July, the front line had stabilized: Russian troops withdrew from Novodorovka to the lakes and heights located to the south.

Ukrainian formations did not abandon their attempts to squeeze the Russian Armed Forces from the held lines. As a rule, tactics were reduced to the use of personnel in "meat assaults", and armored vehicles were tried to be saved. The loss of each unit of equipment supplied from the West caused reputational damage to both Western defense companies and NATO countries.

On July 29, a video appeared on the Web that made Western audiences gnash their teeth. One Russian tank went into battle against an entire column of the AFU: on that day, the Ukrainians decided to try again to attack with a mechanized column...
